

Building Bridges: Coyote Gulch Community Engagement Project

William Steiner, Emily Hill, Claire Stanley, David Kim, Monica Fernandez, Alison Day, Rawad Farhat, Celina Diaz

BACKGROUND

Mission of the House Structure:

- Foster a sense of community within the house structure.
- Engage meaningfully with people and patients served in assigned clinics.
- Community-building and engagement initiative leveraging interprofessional collaboration for a holiday gift drive and clinic party

METHODS

Coyote Gulch house representatives, SA staff, and CHWs at South Main Clinic collaborated to design a Family Information Survey to identify and address social needs, especially ahead of the holiday season.

In Response Students:

- Set up and promoted an Amazon registry to collect essential supplies by encouraging community donations
- Organized a holiday clinic party for patients

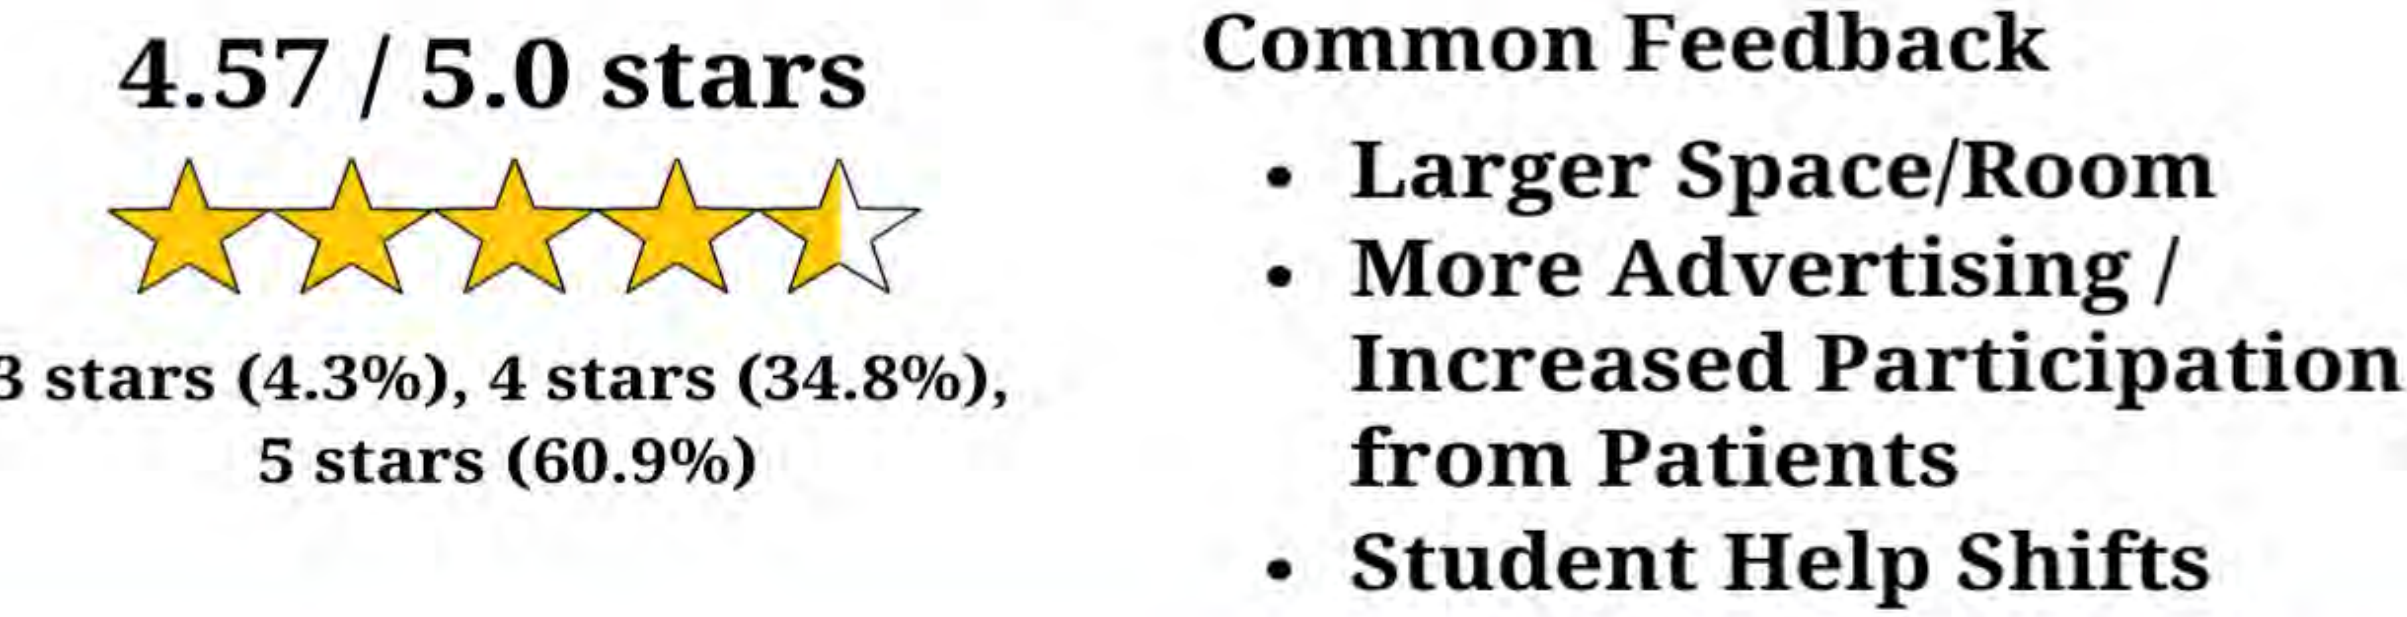

RESULTS

DISCUSSION

- Engaging patients in the context of their lives enhances healthcare delivery and improves outcomes.
- All items on the Amazon registry were successfully purchased and distributed to families.
- Community event was well-attended by patients and their families.
- Students enjoyed interacting with and serving the community.

Strengths:

- Good provision of food, drinks, and activities.
- Successful registry and strong community participation.

Limitations:

- Patient feedback was not collected.
- Quick turnaround and uncertainty about the registry's long-term impact.

Our house is planning to continue this tradition annually.
